New Croft Fund Presents Beaux Arts Trio Concerts

A new fund in the Music Division of the Library of Congress, the William and Adeline Croft Fund, will be inaugurated this winter with three pairs of concerts by the Beaux Arts Trio. These six concerts will be presented in addition to the series performed each year by the Juilliard String Quartet, which appears under the auspices of the Gertrude Clarke Whittall Foundation.

Mr. and Mrs. William Croft were both longtime followers of the Library of Congress concerts before Mr. Croft's death in 1971, and Mrs. Croft has continued to be a regular and enthusiastic member of the audience. Mr. Croft, an attorney, was the chief hearing examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission's Bureau of Operating Rights. He later went into private practice, first with the Washington law firm of Wrape and Hernly, and later as a partner in the firm of Croft, Dail and Vance. A native Minnesotan, Adeline Ritschel Croft has taught piano in the Washington, D.C., area. In Minneapolis she studied with the distinguished French pianist E. Robert Schmitz. It was Schmitz who described his gifted American student's talent as "dynamic and artistic, . . . in harmony with progressive thought."

It is fitting that the Croft Fund, established to further the Library's chamber music series, will be inaugurated by the celebrated Beaux Arts Trio, long a favorite with Library audiences. Through their highly acclaimed performances and recordings, the three artists—violinist Isidore Cohen, cellist Bernard Greenhouse, and pianist Menahem Pressler—have greatly encouraged interest in the repertoire for piano trio. Hailed by critics, audiences, and fellow musicians throughout the world, the trio has performed for 26 years since its public debut at the Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood. The ensemble's recordings include the complete piano trios of Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Brahms, and Dvořák and have won the Grand Prix du Disque, the Deutscher Schallplattenpreis, the Grand Prix National de Disque, the Union de la Presse Belge, and the Gramophone Record of the Year.

Comparable institutions and organizations in other countries may arrange to receive the Bulletin on the exchange basis by applying in writing to the Library's Exchange and Gift Division. CDS Alert Service Now Includes Cataloging in Publication Records

Now one year old, the CDS Alert Service, the weekly notification service from the Cataloging Distribution Service that provides current cataloging for over 1,800 subjects, has been expanded to include Cataloging in Publication (CIP) information. From the outset, U.S. libraries have used CIP data to facilitate their cataloging procedures as CIP allows them to get books to the shelf faster and to make better use of their staff. CDS Alert Service subscribers will now also be able to use CIP data for collections development and acquisitions activities.

Because CIP records represent Library of Congress cataloging based on prepublication information supplied by domestic publishers, three- to six-months notice will be provided in advance of the book's actual date of publication. Typically a CIP notice includes the following information: author, title, publisher, place of publication, price, subject categories, and in the upper right corner, the anticipated date of publication. CIP notices also carry the legend "Cataloging in Publication" to clearly distinguish them from regular CDS Alert Service notices. Approximately 30,000 CIP records are created each year. Of these, Alert Service subscribers will receive just those records which match their profiles. They will not at this time, however, receive notices a second time when they are updated to fully verified MARC records. If a significant number of subscribers express interest in this latter option, every effort will be made to make it available.

Fred Royer and Don Eisinger of the Cataloging Distribution Service designed and developed the software for the CDS Alert Service. With the able assistance of Emma Richardson, also of CDS, they have upgraded the software to include not only CIP but other improvements. Currently, for example, only those law records are available that have a class K number. Many law records, however, do not have LC classification numbers and therefore are not at this time available through the Alert Service. In the not too distant future, it will be possible to get both the class K records, referred to in the CDS Alert Directory, as well as those law records which do not have LC classification numbers.

A new edition of the CDS Alert Directory is also scheduled for 1982. Every effort will be made to include in the directory as many of those subjects recommended by current Alert Service subscribers as is practical. Consequently, if customers have a subject which they would like to see included in the CDS Alert Directory, they should send their suggestions to the Cataloging Distribution Service. These and any other comments or recommendations should be referred to Peter Young, customer services officer, tel. (202) 287–1306, or John Celli, library customer services analyst, tel. (202) 287–1308, in care of the Cataloging Distribution Service, Customer Services Section, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20541. Information about the CIP program in general is available by writing to the Library of Congress, Cataloging in Publication Division, Washington, D.C. 20540.

Dorian Wind Quintet, Diane Curry Will Perform on January 29

The Dorian Wind Quintet, celebrating its 20th season, will perform at the Library of Congress with mezzo-soprano Diane Curry on Friday evening, January 29. Included on their program will be Luciano Berio's children's play for wind quintet, Opus Number Zoo. The work was composed in 1951 and revised for the Dorian Wind Quintet with English text by Rhoda Levine in 1970. The other works on the program will be three organ works of Johann Sebastian Bach arranged for winds by Mordechai Rechtman; R. Murray Schafer's Minnelieder (1956), settings of Medieval German love songs; and the quintet composed in 1878 by the French flutist and conductor, Paul Taffanel.

The members of the Dorian Wind Quintet are Karl Kraber, flute; Gerard Reuter, oboe; Jerry Kirkbride, clarinet; Jane Taylor, bassoon; and David Jolley, French horn. Organized under a Fromm Foundation grant in 1961, the quintet has toured throughout the world, often collaborating with renowned artists. This season they presented their Carnegie Hall debut in November, and their schedule also includes three concerts at Brooklyn's Academy of Music with pianist Ruth Laredo. Concert tours have taken the quintet to the International Music Festival in Warsaw, the Caramoor Festival in New York, the Stravinsky Festival at the Lincoln Center, and the Music Festival of Stratford, Ontario. Their repertoire and list of recordings include numerous works commissioned by contemporary composers. The artists frequently deliver lecture-demonstrations and master classes and have served as the resident ensemble at Brooklyn College, Hunter College, and in the State University system of New York.

Diane Curry has been a principal artist with the New York City Opera and the Lyric Opera of Chicago. This season she returns to the New York City Opera in Cherubini's Medea and in a concert performance of Wagner's Die Feen. She will also appear with the Opera Company of Philadelphia and in the Seattle Opera's Ring Festival. In addition to her operatic career, Miss Curry has appeared frequently as an oratorio soloist and with major symphony orchestras, including the New York Philharmonic and the National Symphony Orchestra. Her first recording, of Symphony No. 2 "Ariel" by Stephen Douglas Burton, was recently released. Miss Curry graduated from Westminster Choir College, after which she studied lieder at the Chatauqua Institute of Music.

This concert, sponsored by the Library's Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation, will begin promptly at 8 p.m. in the Coolidge Auditorium. Tickets will be distributed at the Patrick Hayes box office at 1330 G St. N.W. (Jordan-Kitt's), beginning at 8:30 on Monday morning, January 25. Two tickets will be distributed to an individual, with a 25 cent service charge on each ticket. Phone orders may be placed by calling 393–4463. Mail orders are not accepted.

The concert will be broadcast live over radio station WETA–FM and made available to stations in other cities by the Public Radio Cooperative, under the auspices of the Katie and Walter Louchheim Fund in the Library of Congress.

Vacancy for Preliminary Cataloger Proves Hard to Fill

A GS–5 (promotion plan to GS–8) vacancy of library technician (preliminary cataloger) for Persian and related materials in the Descriptive Cataloging Division has proven hard to fill because of an insufficient number of applicants who met the required qualifications under Posting 10381. Applications are invited from all persons both inside and outside the Library of Congress who may have an interest in the position and feel that they are qualified. The starting salary is $12,854 per year.

The new announcement of the vacancy, Posting 10669, states that the minimum required qualifications must have been met by January 21 and lists them as follows.

"Six months of general clerical or library experience plus six months of specialized experience at the GS–4 level in the Federal Service or at a comparable level of difficulty outside the Federal Service. Specialized experience must demonstrate good communication abilities in English sufficient to read, understand, and discuss complex cataloging rules; ability to adapt quickly and to work under pressure to meet strict deadlines."

The educational requirement at the GS–5 level is two years of college. The language requirement is a reading knowledge, including ability to romanize and type as applicable, of Persian and one additional modern foreign language sufficient to perform bibliographical searching and to formulate preliminary catalog entries. The additional modern foreign language may be one of the following: Chinese, Indonesian, Korean, Spanish, or Portuguese; or any language from one of these groups: African, Arabic alphabet, Hebraic, or Western European languages.

Briefly stated, the incumbent learns and applies a complex body of cataloging rules and procedural guidelines, organizing bibliographical data and recording it accurately and quickly, (1) in searching manually in the Official Catalog, Process Information File and/or via CRT terminal in the MARC Data Base, or in related manual or machine-readable files, to determine a work's exact bibliographic relationship to the Library's collections; (2) in writing appropriate reports of such searches; (3) in recommending the appropriate choice and form of entry for new works; and (4) preparing, manually or online via CRT terminal, preliminary entries for new works and editions selected for retention for the collections. The incumbent prepares, manually or online via CRT terminal, preliminary entries for new works and editions selected for retention for the collections.

Employees of the Library of Congress may apply through the usual channels. Interested persons outside the Library of Congress may make application by mailing a completed Personal Qualifications Statement, Standard Form 171 (available from any

The fall meeting of the Council of Scholars took place on December 4–5. Papers on the subject of creativity were delivered by Herbert Simon of Carnegie-Mellon University, Nobel Prize winner in economics in 1978, and Jaroslav Pelikan of Yale University. The council also discussed its recently published booklet, Creativity: A Continuing Inventory of Knowledge, compiled by the council's executive secretary, James H. Hutson. The investigation of creativity, which has engaged the council's attention at its last three meetings, concluded with this meeting. A new topic for the council's deliberations, which will become the second installment in the Inventory of Knowledge, was discussed and will be selected shortly.

Two new members joined the council in the fall—Loren Graham, professor of the history of science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and fellow at the Woodrow Wilson Center, and Walter Berns, resident scholar, American Enterprise Institute. Council membership now totals 28.

January 28 Panel Will Discuss "Saving Your Tax Dollars"

The Women's Program Advisory Committee will sponsor a panel discussion on January 28 entitled "Saving Your Tax Dollars." The program will be held in the Whittall Pavilion from noon to one o'clock. Moderated by committee member Lana Kay Jones, the panel will consist of John Kominski, general counsel, and three Congressional Research Service analysts who work in the area of taxes and financial planning: Nonna Noto, an economist, and Marie Morris and Howard Zaritsky, legal analysts. Among the topics to be discussed are child care credits, dependent deductions, estate planning, inter vivos gifts to children, marital status as it affects tax liability, alimony and child support, property ownership, adoption costs, and the deductibility of expenses associated with volunteer services. There will also be a discussion of the Economic Recovery Act of 1981, the "marriage penalty," and IRAs.

Although it will not be possible to give individual tax advice, it is hoped that the program will assist staff members in preparing 1981 tax returns and provide information on planning finances in the coming year to gain the best advantage from recent changes in the tax law.

Persons with questions they wish to have answered should submit them in advance to Lana Kay Jones on ext. 76316. Staff members whose attendance at this program may require time beyond the regular lunch period should consult their supervisors.

for National Programs. Also present for the occasion were Mary Jack Wintle, assistant director of NLS, Mary Berghaus Levering, chief of the NLS Network Division, and Miriam M. Pace, assistant chief of the Network Division. Following the presentation, Mr. and Mrs. Dorf were guests at a luncheon in the buffet dining room of the Madison Building. On returning to the Taylor Street Annex, Mrs. Dorf was surprised by the whole NLS/BPH staff with a party of fellowship, goodies, and decorations.

Mrs. Dorf was born in Somerset, Ky., educated at the Kentucky School for the Blind in Louisville, and continued her studies through the Hadley School for the Blind in Winnetka, Ill. Her entire working career has been in the field of braille. For approximately 10 years, she embossed braille plates at the Clovernook Printing House for the Blind, followed by a year of braille proofreading for the American Printing House for the Blind.

Frank Kurt Cylke presents a 30-year pin to Maxine Dorf, as Carol A. Nemeyer and Mr. Dorf look on.

She came to the Library of Congress in August 1951 as an assistant braille instructor in the former Division for the Blind. Through her work on the Instruction Manual for Braille Transcribing, a lesson plan for teaching braille, she received a Meritorious Service Award in 1961. After serving as braille instructor and braille advisor to NLS/BPH, she became head in 1966 of what is now known as the Braille Codes Section.

Mrs. Dorf is recognized as a leading authority on braille in the United States, having served for 15 years on the Braille Authority of North America, the body responsible for the development of braille codes. She currently chairs the Technical Committee on Literary Braille of the Braille Authority of North America.

Through her continuous work with and assistance to volunteers, she was installed as president of the National Braille Association, Inc., on May 20, 1981. Mrs. Dorf holds life memberships in a number of organizations of and for the blind and has received two awards for her outstanding work in promoting volunteer activities as they relate to library services.

Annie Dan, James Williams Earn 20-Year Service Award Pins

Annie May G. Dan, senior classifier in the Music Section, Special Materials Cataloging Division, received a Federal Service Award pin on November 30 in recognition of 20 years of service. The presentation was made by David A. Smith, chief of that division.

A native of Shanghai, China, Miss Dan was employed in the U.S. Embassy at Taipei, Taiwan, during the years from 1952 to 1956. She came to the Library of Congress in 1964 as a scientific information specialist in the Aerospace Technology Division. After leaving the Library's employ in 1969, Miss Dan resumed her career in 1971 as a reference librarian in the Chinese and Korean Section of the Asian Division. Later that same year, she transferred to her current position in the Music Section.

Miss Dan is an active member of two performing groups in the Washington, D.C., area—the Chinese Opera Society of Washington and the Sunday Afternoon Singing Group.

James R. Williams, catalog maintenance assistant in the NUC Control Section of the Catalog Publication Division, was presented a 20-year Federal Service Award pin on November 20 by Gloria H. Hsia, chief of the division.

A native of Washington, D.C., Mr. Williams has earned all his Federal service with the Library of

The questions to which she gave those replies were posed by an enthusiastic fourth-grade class from Francis Scott Key Elementary School of Washington, D.C., visiting the Library of Congress on December 11. Over 30 children huddled in the third-floor Poetry Room as Mrs. Kumin answered a variety of questions on writing and poetry. Mrs. Kumin also autographed some of her works which the children had brought for her signature. The class concluded its visit with a tour of the Thomas Jefferson Building.

Congress. Mr. Williams joined the Exchange and Gift Division as a laborer in 1961 following his graduation from Roosevelt High School. In 1963, he was promoted to the position of library assistant. He remained with that division until 1968 when he transferred to the Serial Record Division as a library technician. In October 1980, Mr. Williams transferred to his present position with the Catalog Publication Division.

In November, Mr. Williams was among the recipients of a Special Achievement Award presented to the employees of the Catalog Maintenance Unit in recognition of the high quality of their performance.

Staff Activities

Elena Bradunas, folklife specialist with the American Folklife Center, was invited to speak at the opening of an art exhibition dealing with themes from Lithuanian mythology and folklore on November 20 in Chicago, Ill. She had previously prepared the introductory essay for the exhibition's bilingual catalog entitled "Mitai": A Contemporary Expression of Lithuanian Mythical Beings, published by the Lithuanian American Women Artists' Association. On November 25–29, she participated in the Fourth Lithuanian Symposium on Arts and Sciences. The symposia, organized every four years in Chicago, bring together scholars from all fields to deliver papers in the Lithuanian language. Ms. Bradunas, one of 156 scholars participating in the fourth symposium, contributed a paper on "The First Lithuanian Phonograph Records Made in America: A Forgotten Resource."

John Comaromi, chief of the Decimal Classification Division, and Julianne Beall, classification specialist in the division, gave an all-day workshop on Edition 19 of the Dewey Decimal Classification to 25 persons at the State University of New York at Albany on December 10. On December 11 at a seminar on Melvil Dewey in Albany, N.Y., Mr. Comaromi presented a paper on the epistemological characteristics of library classifications in the late 19th century.

On November 7, Tao-tai Hsia, chief of the Far Eastern Law Division, delivered a paper on the legal development of China since the revolution of 1911. Presented at the 23rd annual conference of the American Association for Chinese Studies in Columbus, Ohio, Dr. Hsia's paper focused on the judicial system and legal reforms of the People's Republic of China from 1949 to the present. Franz Michael of the faculty of George Washington University was the discussant for Dr. Hsia's paper.

Mary Berghaus Levering, chief of the NLS/BPH Network Division, attended the annual conference of West Virginia librarians held November 12–14 in White Sulphur Springs. Mrs. Levering addressed the gathering, of about 250–300 West Virginia librarians, providing an update on the national activities on the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped and expressing special thanks to the libraries of West Virginia which cooperate in the NLS/BPH program. These include the West Virginia Library Commission which administers the regional library in Charleston and five subregional libraries in Romney, Huntington, Morgantown, downtown Charleston, and Parkersburg. Mrs. Levering also met separately with the public library directors of the five subregional libraries to discuss matters of mutual concern, including future funding, new equipment developments, and the recently strengthened NLS/BPH consumer relations program.

Harold C. Relyea, a specialist in American national government in the Government Division, has been named to the Committee on Scientific Freedom and Responsibility of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Chaired by Leonard M. Rieser, provost of Dartmouth College, this panel is currently focusing on ways to resolve potential conflicts between national security interests and the traditions promoting the free exchange of scientific and technical data within the scientific community. Dr. Relyea, who joined the Congressional Research Service in 1971, is the author of a number of articles on government information policy and practice and the office and powers of the President in professional journals and official publications in Australia, Canada, and Europe, as well as the United States. He recently published The Presidency and Information Policy with the Center for the Study of the Presidency in New York City.

Recent Court Decision Reported

In a decision handed down on June 16, 1981, over a year following the trial of this Title VII matter, U.S. District Court Judge Harold Greene found that the Library had discriminated against a female employee in failing to consider her for the position of assistant chief of the Prints and Photographs Division. In so holding, the Court further found that Library officials chose to post the position at a grade GS–15 to preclude the plaintiff (a grade GS–13) from meeting the time-in-grade requirement, that there was sufficient additional evidence to show disparate treatment of the plaintiff, and that the Library preselected the individual appointed to the position. As an alternative holding, the Court found that the Library, notwithstanding time-in-grade, should have examined the plaintiff's experience to determine if it were "equivalent to" service at the GS–14 level, noting that the Library had frequently waived time-in-grade in other cases, but in upper level positions only for males.

As restitution, the Court, on October 28, ordered the Library to promote the plaintiff, with back pay, to the position in question and at the grade it was posted. (The position was vacant at the time of the Court's order.) The Library denied the allegations in this case and sought to appeal the Court's finding, in particular the alternative finding, but pursuant to recommendations from the Civil Division, U.S. Department of Justice, the Solicitor General has determined that the case will not be appealed. Deputy Librarian Welsh Visits Australia

Deputy Librarian of Congress William J. Welsh was the keynote speaker at a recent seminar on National Information Policy in Canberra, Australia. The December 7–8 seminar was sponsored by the Australian Capital Territory Branch of the Library Association of Australia, and Mr. Welsh's participation was arranged by Averill M. B. Edwards, president of the A.C.T. Branch.

William J. Welsh and Harrison Bryan

In his remarks, Mr. Welsh related some of the history of efforts to enunciate a national information policy in the United States, including the creation of the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science, and explained why he believes the United States will continue to have a pluralistic national information policy with participation at the local and state levels, at the national level, and with increased participation of the private sector in providing tailor-made information services. Video and optical disk technologies will be important to those in the information handling business and "promise a revolution such as we have experienced with the computer," he explained, but "wisdom dictates that all segments of our society continue to participate in developing ways to continue to arm our people with the knowledge necessary to govern themselves."

Mr. Welsh also participated in a panel discussion at the seminar on a program for action for Australia. Other panelists were Harrison Bryan, director-general of the National Library of Australia, Senator G. Evans of the Australian Parliament, and Sir Peter Crisp, chair, Australian Advisory Council on Bibliographical Service.

Following the seminar, Mr. Welsh visited the National Library of New Zealand in Wellington.

AACR 2 Workshop in India

At the request of several senior librarians in the New Delhi area, M. B. Pipkin, libraries and books services officer of USICA, and Mya Thanda Poe, assistant field director for administration and planning of the Library of Congress Office in New Delhi, organized an AACR 2 workshop in collaboration with the Indian Library Association and the Indian Association of Academic Librarians. The Indian Council of Cultural Relations (ICCR) granted permission for use of its premises at Azad Bhavan for the venue.

M. Bhalla, secretary of ICCR, opened the November 16–18 workshop. Joginder Singh, library director of the American Center, USICA, was the program coordinator, and V. Iyengar, chief, Cataloging, USICA, and K. Subramaniyan, cataloging coordinator, Library of Congress, served as resource persons. Thirty librarians from major government, university, and research libraries participated in the workshop.

The American Library Association's videotapes on AACR 2 were screened, followed by a discussion of the relevant rules. Cataloging of sample monographs and serials was analyzed and explicated by K. Subramaniyan. In-depth questions and comments from participants punctuated the proceedings, with steady guidance from the moderators, Girja Kumar, librarian of the Jawaharlal Nehru University, and A. P. Shrivastava and Krishan Kumar of the Department of Library Science faculty, Delhi University.

At the conclusion of the workshop, participants expressed their appreciation for the benefit they had derived from the intensive exposure to the new code. They offered a positive evaluation of format and content of the workshop and, along with the Indian institutional sponsors, strongly emphasized the need for more workshops.

ALA Launches "Library Awareness" Campaign

The American Library Association is sponsoring a "Library Awareness Idea Search," a nationwide search for the best ideas—both tried and untried—to promote public awareness of libraries. The best ideas will be published by H. W. Wilson Co. in a "Library Awareness Idea Handbook" to be available at the ALA Annual Conference in Philadelphia, Pa., in July. Authors will be listed by name in the handbook. The national search will recognize creativity of book people and provide ideas to be shared with the library and book community. The most imaginative ideas will receive special recognition at the ALA President's Program in Philadelphia as well as be included in the handbook. Entries are welcome from all creative idea people. All ALA members and others are encouraged to participate.

Participants should type each idea on a separate entry of no more than three 8½- by 11-inch pages answering these questions: What is the public awareness problem you are addressing? What is your idea, how will it be carried out, and what are the intended results? Participants should include their name, address, telephone number, signature, and data, and mail before February 8 to President Elizabeth Stone, "Library Awareness Idea Search," American Library Association, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago, Ill. 60611. Additional information is available from Mary Berghaus Levering, Coordinator, Library Awareness Idea Search Project, in care of the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20542, tel. (202) 287–6115, or at home, 560 N St. S.W., Apt. N–502, Washington, D.C. 20024, tel. (202) 554–9326.

National Level Bibliographic Record Volume Issued for Music

The National Level Bibliographic Record—Music, now available from the Cataloging Distribution Service, provides the standard for inputting cataloging records for music according to the MARC formats standards which are published in a companion publication, MARC Formats for Bibliographic Data. Use of these standard input procedures will promote the effective exchange of machine-readable cataloging records for music among organizations by defining the specific data elements that should be included in records which might be shared with other organizations or contributed to a nationwide data base. Emphasis is on the choice of data elements to be included in a record rather than on content designation. Since content and content designation cannot be separated in machine-readable records, this publication is based on the MARC format for music. The information, effective as of January 1981 with the adoption of AACR 2, is presented in tabular form and includes (1) the name of each element defined for music (as presented in the MARC Formats for Bibliographic Data) as well as some local elements, (2) an indication of whether or not the designator is used in MARC records created and distributed by the Library of Congress (as presented in the MARC Formats for Bibliographic Data), and (3) the data element requirements based on the AACR 2 cataloging rules for both full- and minimal-level records reflecting original cataloging by organizations in the United States, including the three national libraries.

Acquisitions records and retrospective conversion of existing cataloging records—not in connection with cataloging an item in hand—are considered beyond the scope of this document. Instructions for transcribing existing manual cataloging records into machine-readable form in connection with cataloging an item in hand are, however, given in the appendix.

It should be noted that this document is not concerned with the specifics of the format (for example, when to use a particular field, how to set its indicator values and use the subfield codes, and so forth) nor does it include examples illustrating the coding of the fields. Such information is available in the MARC Formats for Bibliographic Data.

This document was prepared by Phyllis A. Bruns and reflects intensive review by Library of Congress Processing Services and Network Development Office staff as well as review by the library community.

The price of this looseleaf format publication is $20, which includes the base edition plus the first update. The 1981 semiannual subscription service updates are priced at $15 each. The National Level Bibliographic Record—Music is the third NLBR document to be published by the Library of Congress. The first, NLBR—Books, which was published in 1980, is priced at $10 with a semiannual update subscription service price at $15. The second, NLBR—Films, which was published in February 1981, is priced at $20 with a semiannual update subscription service price at $15. NLBR—Maps and NLBR—Serials will be published shortly. All orders and inquiries should be directed to Cataloging Distribution Service, Subscriber Accounts Unit, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20541.
